Lee County's 3rd Draft Contingent Gets Exams at Chicago

100 Men Given Once-Over to Date; 50% Pass

No Inductions Have Been Made, However

Lee county lined up another draft contingent of 25 men in the fog and rain this morning at the Chicago North Western depot, just before sending them to Chicago for physical examinations.

Altogether 100 men from Lee county have been sent in to an assembly line of doctors.

No Inductions

As yet, however, none has been ordered to report for induction.

Of the first draft of 50, about half received "letters of acceptibility." The other half presumably was rejected because of disabilities.

No further quotas are immediately ahead for Lee county.

Briefly, here are the draft steps.

1. The county meets its quotas by sending previously classified "1-A's" between 19 and 25 to Chicago for examinations.

Get 21 Day Notice

2. The men are notified anytime after 21 days that they have been accepted or rejected as far as the first physical is concerned.

3. The local draft board then brings the 1-A list up to date by reclassifying men who, say, now have dependents.

4. Those ordered to report for induction will get 10-days notice.

London, Sept. 19—(AP)—Ministers of nine commonwealth countries began pull-together economic talks today to help the western drive against Communism.

Officials said one topic which will come up in the course of a general review of the commonwealth's economic policies is the relationship between the pound sterling and the dollar. Nations represented were Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Canada, India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Southern Rhodesia.

Bibles, Not Beer!

Denver, Sept. 19—(AP) — The National Women's Christian Temperance Union was told today that Bibles—not bottles are the key to gracious living.

"Gracious living does not depend upon social drinking, as liquor advertisers would have people believe," Mrs. Ethel Bliss Baker of Minneapolis declared in a message read in her absence.

"Gracious living depends upon the courtesy, consideration and love that only Christianity can bring into a home."

Mrs Baker is the WCTU director of child welfare. The national convention ends with a banquet tonight and committee meetings tomorrow.

Truman Hatchet-Man Urges Labor to Defeat Sen. Taft

Houston, Sept. 19—(AP)—A top administration spokesman told the American Federation of Labor today "we can no longer afford" to have Senator Robert Taft (R-Ohio) in a position of high resonsibility.

W. Averill Harriman, special assistant to President Truman, said in a prepared address that if the Ohioan's advice in recent years had been followed, "Communist objectives would thereby been furthered."

Blunt Language

Harriman's blunt language was one of the sharpest administration attacks on Taft, whose defeat in the November election was predicted yesterday by AFL President William Green.

"When you look at his record," said the former ambassador to Russia and Great Britain, "you cannot escape the conclusion that if the congress had adopted his position Communist objectives would thereby have been furthered.

"Actions which further the designs of the Kremlin cannot be forgiven on the ground that they were taken unwittingly. The most charitable thing one can say about Taft is that he knows not what he does."

"We can no longer afford to leave in positions of high responsibility men who fail to recognize that American leadership is essential to the peace of the world."

Harriman prefaced his criticism of Taft with an appeal for the AFL delegates to "impress upon your membership the obligation and responsibility that everyone of us has to vote."

Cites Taft's Votes

He said candidates for reelection should be appraised on the basis, in part, of how they voted on the Marshall plan and the North Atlantic treaty. Taft, he said voted against both and also against mili-

UN Assembly Opens Today; Critical Meet

New York, Sept. 19—(AP)—The world's top diplomats gathered here today for the opening of the United Nations fifth general assembly—its most critical meeting in U. N. history.

A gavel rap by retiring President Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines foreign minister, unleashes a review of the world's troubles that may occupy the 500 delegates from 59 member nations for the next three months or more.

The foreign ministers of the 12 Atlantic pact nations, including the British-French-American big three, closed their sessions yesterday. They moved today to the auditorium at Flushing Meadow, in the old New York world's fair grounds to which their concern over east-west differences with fellow U. N. members.

Princeton Man Held In Joliet as Forger

Joliet, Ill., Sept 19—(AP)— A Princeton, Ill., man was seized in Joliet yesterday and charged with check fraud.

Police Sergeant John Dillon said the man is Ralph Moses, [illegible], and that he was recognized as he attempted to cash a worthless check at a store after having obtained $30 on a similar check Aug. 7.

Dillon said that Moses related he had cashed checks in four states for a total of $1,300 since early last month. He said all the checks were for amounts under $59, drawn on the First National Bank of Wyanet, Ill., and passed in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Iowa towns.

The officer said Moses told him that he forged his mother's signature on the checks and then endorsed them for cashing.

Dixon Youths Indicted for Looting Cars

Six boys—including four Dixon youths—were indicted Monday by the September grand jury.

The four local boys are Kenneth Henson, 18, of 422 Monroe avenue; Richard Walls, 19, of 614 Palmyra avenue (Swissville); Richard (Pete) Brenner, 18, of 520 Second avenue (Swissville), and Robert Murphy, 21, of 944 Dement avenue.

Cars Looted

All were charged with conspiracy to commit a felony and larceny in connection with the looting of some 15 to 20 Dixon cars the night of Aug 6.

State's Attorney Morey C. Pires said all four would be represented by John Devine and would appear in circuit court Friday, Sept. 22, at 10 o'clock.

Two Plano youths—Darwin Bernard, 19, and Fred Smith, 15, were indicted on charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the looting of the Smallwood Hard-

Nickell Says State School System Tops

Elburn, Ill., Sept. 19—(AP)—Vernon L. Nickell, Republican state school superintendent seeking reelection, today called the Illinois public school system one of the nation's finest.

Nickell told a GOP campaign rally "I have given leadership to an aggressive, positive program of education for all children" during eight years as school chief.

William G. Stratton, party nominee for state treasurer, said his experience in that office in 1943-41 gave him an insight into its problems. Earle Benjamin Searcy, running for another term as state supreme court clerk, also spoke.

Killer Gangs Make Shambles Of U.S. Laws

15 Billion Dollar Rackets Operating

Washington, Sept. 19—(AP)—Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) declared today that a $15,000,000,000 illegal gambling industry is being run in this country by the same big city gangs that were the terror of the 1920's.

Kefauver appealed for help, in behalf of the special senate committee investigating interstate crime which he heads, to the criminal law section of the American Bar Association. ABA is holding its 73rd annual meeting here.

How Many Gangs?

The senate traveling crime inquiry, Kefauver said, has not yet ascertained whether there is "one or more big-time criminal gangs operating on a country-wide basis." But he said this can surely be reported:

"Crime is definitely on an organized basis in the United States.

"So widespread are organized criminal operations that they threaten to make a shambles of law enforcement and to create such a universal disrespect for law that our entire system of government may be endangered."

The gangs are the same as those which operated "on such a high-handed, even murderous basis in the 'Roaring Twenties,'" Kefauver said, adding.

Same Names, Faces

"There is still the Costello mob in New York, the Capone gang in Chicago, the Purple gang in Detroit. The names are the same and to the extent that their owners have survived—the faces are the same."

Attorney General McGrath, addressing the same meeting, promised that federal intervention in crime control will not invade the jurisdiction of state and local police.

Anti-Gambling Laws

Two pending administration bills, one banning the interstate transportation of gaming machines and the other barring telegraph transmission of racing information, are intended to help the states meet a serious problem, McGrath said.

A third speaker, Gov. Adlai E Stevenson of Illinois, predicted that crime will not be cured until police forces are divorced from "partisan political control."

Missing 'Skymaster' Radios All Hands OK

New York, Sept. 19—(AP)—The Coast Guard said a Douglas Skymaster plane missing near Iceland since last Friday with seven men and 10 dogs sent out an SOS today.

The cutter Ingham said the message read: "SOS, SOS, all alive." It was signed by the call letters of the missing plane. The message was picked up by a passing plane.

The location of the missing plane was not learned but it was believed to be on land in southeastern Iceland.

The plane was enroute from Luxembourg to Reykjavik when it disappeared.

CONFESSES SLAYING DAUGHTER—Holding a flashlight so a stenographer can take down his words, Fred Goodell, Jr., 23, tells of burying his 6-months-old daughter, Nancy, on a hill near Patterson, N. J. Goodell, who earlier reported the little girl kidnaped, confessed killing her accidentally in a fit of anger, police said.

Malik Bolts Session of UN As Red Korean Gun Is Shown

Lake Success, Sept. 19—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur says Russia and Communist China supplied men and munitions to North Korea to help that country deliver a Sunday punch against the south.

The United Nations commander charged, in his fourth report to the security council yesterday, that the Peiping government sent 40,000 to 60,000 combat-trained men of Korean origin from its armies. He accused Russia of sending arms and ammunitions to North Korea as late as 1950.

Displays Red Gun

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin, who read the report to the council after Russia's Jacob A. Malik lost a two-hour battle to prevent him, displayed a Russian 1950 submachine gun captured from the Korean Reds as proof of the General's charges.

Malik left the room rather than examine the gun, but returned later to denounce MacArthur's report as a "shameful document" which he claimed was "designed to divert public opinion from American aggression."

Malik Is Incensed

The Russian derided the afternoon's proceedings as "a tragicomedy improvised by the United States for purely provocational purposes, with a show of arms" to make it better.

MacArthur also charged the North Koreans "conducted savagely barbarous killings of captured Americans" and pointed out cases where they shot American prisoners whose hands had been bound.

MacArthur's report praised U. N. forces—land, sea and air—and also lauded the valiant people of South Korea.

Two Illinois GI's Win Bronze Stars

Tokyo, Sept. 19—(AP)—Pfc. Jack C Cox of Peoria, Ill., and 1st Lieut. D. M. Dexter, Jr., Bloomington, Ill., have been awarded bronze stars for heroism in Korean fighting.

Announcement of the decorations was made yesterday by the 24th Infantry Division headquarters.

Bootleg Better!

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 19—(AP)—W. B. Shofner, federal alcohol tax unit agent, says his men caught a Chattanooga bootlegger pouring legal whisky into a jug so he could sell it as moonshine.

Shofner said the man reported contraband liquor sold better in wet Chattanooga than the legal brands.

Carpenters to Vote Tonight On Wage Offer

Local 790 of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners will vote tonight on whether to accept an offer raising their minimum scale from $1.92½ an hour to $2.10.

The offer is from the now strike-bound Dixon Builders Employers association.

The contractors' offer, however, specifies that all construction now under bonafide contracts be completed under the current scale — $1.92½.

Spokesmen for the union have said the clause means that carpenters now on jobs with bona fide contracts as of Sept. 1 would have to wait until the work is finished before they would be entitled to the new scale.

Carpenters originally asked for a 17½c raise effective immediately and another 15c raise effective January 1, 1951. The contractors made no mention of the request for another 15c the first of the year.

The Dixon local will meet in the Labor Hall at 8 o'clock.

More Defendants in Optical Company Suit

Chicago, Sept. 19 — (AP) — Eighty-nine defendants in 22 states were added today in the government's four-year-old anti-trust suit involving the American Optical Company.

The new list named persons to whom the firm assigned retail outlets which it discontinued operating as branches since the suit was filed July 23, 1946.

The supplemental complaint was presented to District Judge Walter J. LaBuy by Harry R. Talen, assistant U. S. attorney of the anti-trust division. Judge LaBuy ordered the 89 dispensers included as defendants after attorney George A. Ranney, Jr., representing 1,825 other defendants in the case said he had no objection.

State's Attorney Who Took 'Donations' from Gambling Interests Given Disbarment Hearing by Supreme Court

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19—(AP)—The Illinois supreme court heard oral arguments yesterday in disbarment proceedings against State's Attorney Warren Wall of Pulaski county and took the case under advisement.

The court may have a decision at its November term.

The Illinois Bar association has recommended he be disbarred as a practicing attorney on the ground he failed to enforce anti-gambling laws.

Accepted "Donations"

Wall's lawyer George B. Lee of Harrisburg, said in final arguments that the state's attorney did what he thought best for the county in accepting "donations" from gamblers and using the money for county expenses. The practice was discontinued in October, 1948.

Lee said gambling was an "accepted institution" in Pulaski county for more than 40 years and that Wall had inherited the practice of tolerating it. Wall was elected state's attorney in 1944 and re-elected in 1948.

J. H. Hinshaw, vice president of the Illinois Bar, told the court the association would have a "difficult task" enforcing its rules against lawyers "if we have to ignore such things as this."

"Wall practically advertised that gamblers could operate at so much a month," Hinshaw declared.

Lee said that Wall did not benefit by allowing gambling and that he accounted for "every penny" collected in that manner.

"Pulaski is an economically blighted county," Lee said. "He was following what he thought was best for the county and what he was requested to do."

Lee said the bar association gave Wall no previous warning that what he was doing was objectionable.

To this, Hinshaw replied:

"This man (Wall) was not naive. He knew what the score was. Why should the bar association have to explain to a man in his second term as state's attorney that what he was doing was wrong?"

Hinshaw said Wall "didn't prosecute a single person for gambling."

He said that Wall's clients were the people "and that's all the more reason why he should be disbarred."

Lee asserted there was "no dishonest motive or fraudulent intent" on Wall's part in taking gambling contributions for courthouse repairs, and school and highway purposes.

United Nation Forces Race Toward Seoul

U. S. Marines Lead Mounting Offensive

By LIEF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 19—(AP)—Allied liberation forces rushed up river-crossing equipment today to jump the Han water barrier at Seoul before Red defenses can be rallied.

The allies were racing against oncoming Communist reinforcements for possession of the besieged capital city.

The Reds appeared to be abandoning the old allied southeast beachhead box perimeter in an

TIT FOR TAT

With U. S. Second Division, Korea, Sept. 19—(AP)—Scores of Russian-made artillery pieces, which three days ago hurled shells at American soldiers, soon will be blasting their former Korean Red owners.

Ordnance men were ordered today to work 'round-the-clock preparing the captured guns for action.

The order came after a preliminary survey of only two sectors showed the North Koreans abandoned at least 74 artillery pieces and big mortars when the second division routed them from the east bank of the Naktong river.

There is a tremendous store of captured Russian-made ammunition for the guns. One regiment alone took 200 tons.

effort to save Seoul for themselves.

Must Span River

Marine-led allies were mounting a 40,000-man offensive aimed at spanning the half-mile-wide Han river and winning Seoul quickly.

Marine forward elements were reported two miles from Seoul—across the unbridged river from the Red-held capital.

The southeast front was cracking wide open under pressure and Red withdrawals toward the allied second front 140 miles away.

A shield of Sherman and Pershing tanks and infantry was thrown out on the marine south flank in Seoul's cross-river suburbs to block off the north-bound Reds.

There the allies had a tank-ringed perimeter set up with great firepower.

Reds Not Far Away

Advance Red columns were reported within a few hours' drive of Seoul.

Seventh division infantrymen—Americans and South Koreans—streamed from Inchon into positions across the main highway leading into Seoul from the south.

The marine vanguard had driven into Yongdungpo, Seoul suburb on the Han's southwest bank, and another leatherneck force pushed about seven miles—also on the

Stock Market Makes Slow Retreat Today

New York, Sept. 19—(AP)—The Stock Market slowly retreated today after a five-day running advance to a four-year peak.

Losses were small, mostly 50 cents a share or less, but widely distributed. Few issues showed any ability to move forward.

Lower prices were paid for U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Admiral Corp., American Telephone, Du Pont, General Electric and International Paper.

A little higher were Bethlehem Steel, Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central and Certain-Teed.

Good Luck, Cork!

John (Cork) Faley, 23, Amboy, who once split Lee county into warring camps with a series of letters to "The Voice of the People" on alcohol, has re-enlisted in the navy.

He reported Monday afternoon to the navy recruiting office in Chicago. He'll move on to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and a billet as Fireman first class.

Faley, famed for his "Chanticleer" letters, served in the navy before. He said he was going in now before they called him up as a member of the reserve. His reserve enlistment doesn't expire until 1954.

"Meanwhile," he said, "I'm going to be The Telegraph's first foreign correspondent."

America Moves to Negotiate Peace Treaty With Japanese

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Washington's move to inaugurate preliminary negotiations for a long delayed Japanese peace treaty will be received both by the west—especially powers having eastern interests—and by Asia itself.

It's five years since the Japanese surrender, and this long military occupation of Nippon has been seized on by some Oriental countries as a basis for repeating the cry of "imperialism" against the west. That is one of the major issues in Asia, and it has been the cause of numerous political upheavals that have followed the world war.

Many far eastern countries of course have a very real fear of "imperialism," and in some cases with good reason. There has been exploitation of colonial peoples.

Moreover there has been an amazing awakening of the Orient during the past few years. This has been accompanied by a surge of nationalism which has resulted in the independence of many dependencies from the "mother" countries.

Naturally Communism has been reaping advantages from this fear and hatred of "imperialism." Moscow has seized on the American occupation of Japan as an example of Yankee imperialism.

There is no successful way of countering this situation so long as the occupation of Japan continues. The answer, of course, must be the framing of the long delayed peace treaty.

Plans for the pact already have been under discussion at the current meeting of the big three foreign ministers (Britain, France and America) in New York. The United States takes the position that the treaty should be framed by the 13 World War Pacific allies, including Russia. However, Moscow has been insisting that the pact be drafted by the big four Pacific powers — America, Britain, Russia and Communist China.

The question therefore arises whether, if Russia persists in this stand, the other powers shall go ahead without her. Washington has declined to cross that bridge until it is reached, but there have been strong indications that the non-Communist nations will proceed without the Soviet Union if necessary, even though it produces fresh bitterness.

Magazine Says Woman Bears Marks Like Christ's Wounds

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (AP) — MacLean's magazine says in its current issue that an Ontario farmer's wife has borne for 10 years marks resembling the wounds suffered by Jesus on Calvary.

She is Mrs. Donald McIsaac, a Roman Catholic and part-Indian mother of eight children who lives in Uptergrove, 86 miles north of Toronto. The magazine said she has what are known as Stigmata—marks resembling Christ's wounds and believed to have been supernaturally impressed.

Scores of doctors, theoligians and laymen have studied the strange marks on the body of the 48-year-old woman do not agree that they are of a supernatural origin, the magazine said.

However, it added, all who have investigated her condition agree that the marks exist, appearing on her hands, feet, left side, head, back and right shoulder. She is said to suffer no pain except on Fridays between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m., when the wounds bleed and she appears to suffer agonies.

The Roman Catholic archdiocese of Toronto investigated the phenomenon and arranged examination of the woman. Later, the church declared officially that it is taking no notice of the happenings in the McIsaac home. A statement from James Cardinal McGuigan said the authority of the diocese "disapproves of the visits of priests and religious and people not connected with the family."

Modern Houdini To Bare Hoaxes Of Spiritualists

A contemporary Houdini will appear at Loveland Community House Wednesday night and show how "mediums and spiritualists" defraud the public!

Vernon E. Lux, along with a company of master magicians, will demonstrate how "mediums" have "spirits" write on a slate in full view of an audience.

Sponsored by the Minnie Belle Rebekah lodge of Dixon, Lux's magicians will start their show at 8 o'clock.

Lux has been a magician for 25 years and his tricks include "Noma," a torture illusion in which a living human is pierced by 12 wide steel plates—with 12 extra swords thrown in for good measure.

The "Wonderland Doves" are another of Lux's specialities—they appear and disappear at his will.

We have stationery suitable and pleasing to the executive of any high class firm. Dial No. 2-1051 and our representative will call upon you with samples.

Churchill Marshals Words For Bitter Debate on Steel

London, Sept. 19—(AP)—Aging Winston Churchill marshalled his bitterest words today for a political attack aimed at striking down the Labor government on a vote of censure and forcing a quick general election.

The Tory thunderer chose violent opposition to state ownership of Britain's steel industry as his cause of all-out war.

Veteran political observers believed the government would survive this attack at it has all others which Churchill has led unceasingly against the Socialist battalions since Labor came to power in 1945.

They agreed, however, that it would scrape through only on the strength of sick men who are rallying from their beds to be in the house for the vital vote expected tonight.

If every member of parliament were present, the government would have a majority of seven.

Majority of Five

At least two Laborites, however, are travelling so far abroad they cannot return for the vote, leaving the government a working majority of five.

Several Labor members are ill—but plan to get to the house and vote anyway.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, ordered to take a three-month rest at the beginning of this month, was driven more than 100 miles from his rural home last night.

For the attacking Tories, one member hopped off an Australian-bound ship at Gibraltar and flew to London. He planned to rejoin his ship in Egypt if the government wins.

Meantime, London bookmakers were offering odds as high as 9 to 4 that the government would win the vital vote.

Churchill angrily forced the issue on the steel bill last Thursday when the government disclosed it was going ahead on schedule to carry out the law nationalizing the industry.

Year-Old Law

The law was passed by parliament about a year ago. Its terms require the government to take the iron and steel plants from their private owners and hand them over to a government corporation some time during the calendar year of 1951.

Churchill's motion of censure urges parliament to "regret" the government action on the grounds that it is "disturbing the smooth and efficient working of an industry vital to our defense program."

The FORMER MISS FREY

By Edwin Rutt

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Although Cornelius Frey never forgave his daughter Ede for eloping with fortune hunting Peter Flood, he tells her on his deathbed that she alone of his four children, "has brains enough" to carry on his prosperous advertising business, which he wishes to remain in the family. He admonishes her to hang onto the stock, because it will take care of them all: Ede, Jeffrey, Myron and Jenn. Ede is to have 51 per cent of the stock, Jeff 25 per cent and Myron 24. Jenn is taken care of through a trust fund. Of the group, only Jeff shows any resentment of Ede. He apparently believes that, as oldest son, the business should be in his charge. Ede has told Jenn that Peter Flood will have to come to New York for awhile. Peter now is in Bermuda.

JENN FREY drew up her knees on the chaise and clasped her hands around them. "I wonder how Peter will like your asking him to come to New York? He's very temperamental, isn't he?"

"His bark's worse than his bite," Ede said offhandedly. "Now if you've got all of the questions off your chest, what about that crack of Jeff's? About your running around with an older man?"

Jenn colored slightly. "Oh, Ede Don't you be stupid, too. Jeff's just a nosy old woman."

"Far be it from me to butt in," Ede said carefully. "But, after all, I'm your sister. I'd naturally take an interest."

"Well, I've nothing to hide," Jenn said, a little defensively. "It's Hamilton Grieve, if you've got to know."

Ede started. Hamilton Grieve had been at least 30, a hanger-on on the social fringe, before she herself had come out.

"He is a bit ancient, isn't he?" she said, trying to sound casual.

"So what? He's got a lot more on the bell than these college infants. He isn't." Jenn hesitated, seeking the right word, "well, callow."

"No," Ede agreed. "Ham wouldn't be callow. Only I should think you'd feel like his daughter. What about that good-looking boy who was so nice to you at the funeral?"

"Tommy Melbourne?" Jenn's voice was shrill with derision. "He's got the mind of a halfback."

"And the shoulders of one, too."

"Well, he did play football at Yale." Jenn's boredom was just a shade too obvious. "But he doesn't know from nothing."

Jenn got up and came over to her. She put a bare warm arm around Ede's shoulders.

"Don't worry about me, Ede," she said. "I know what I'm doing."

"I hope you do, dear," Ede said. "Because, frankly, I'm not going to have time to worry about you."

And that was a lie, she knew. She was worrying already. Hamilton Grieve had been trying to make an advantageous marriage for years and years.

JEFFREY FREY'S function at Frey & Company was to contact the account of Loman & Smith, makers of Morn-Glo Soap. It so happened that, when they arrived at the agency on the following morning, he found an urgent message from his client. The Morn-Glo advertising manager wished to see him immediately. Without even removing his hat, Jeff dashed away.

Ede was secretly pleased. It gave her a chance to talk with Reagan alone. They would get farther, she thought, without Jeff fuming and fussing at the conference.

Her first impression of Dan Reagan was almost frightening. The man affected her with a sense of vast power. His shoulders were incredibly broad, his neck short and thick. He had a large not too homely face, liberally freckled, that ended in a slab of a jaw. Reddish hair and the lightest, most penetrating blue eyes that Ede had ever seen. It was the eyes that softened the rock-like aspect Reagan presented. A little twinkle kept sliding in and out of them, constantly relieving the hard blue glitter. He looks, Ede thought, like a mastodon with a sense of humor.

"Well, Mr. Reagan," she said, by way of opening the discussion, "this is a strange situation, isn't it?"

"Yes." The twinkle was out of Reagan's eyes now. They stared at Ede like blue searchlights. He seemed to be taking in every detail of her tall trim figure, the little black hat and dotted veil, the smartly cut black crepe dress touched with white, the black suede shoes open at the toes. "It is indeed," he added.

"You know all about—about everything?" asked Ede.

"Yes. Your father told me what he had in mind."

Ede felt that he was waiting for her to play to him. She said, "And how do you think you're going to like it, Mr. Reagan?"

He looked her straight in the face. "I haven't made up my mind yet."

• • •

THERE was an awkward pause. Ede grew a little desperate. He was giving her no help, just sitting there staring at her with his challenging blue eyes.

Her mouth firmed. Don Reagan must not see that he had her slightly ill-at-ease. "Keep control," Old Cornelius had said. "If you don't, you're licked."

"Look here, Mr. Reagan," she said, in a steady voice. "I'm going to lay my cards on the table. I need you and I need you badly. At the same time, I understand your position. You were Father's righthand man and you didn't mind being that, I suppose. But now things are different. You may have to take orders from a woman. And you may not like it."

"And if I don't?" Reagan's strong hard jaw was jutting out. His eyes were like blue fire.

"In that case," Ede nerved herself to it, "you'll just have to get out, that's all! There can't be two bosses."

Boom Sweeping Nation's Corn Broom Industry

Lindsay, Okla.—A boom in broom corn is sweeping this broom town. And it spells a shortage of corn brooms for home and industrial use.

Buyers in Lindsay, in the center of Oklahoma's broom corn area, are bidding as much as $500 a ton. Last year the average price per ton was $255; before 1932, it was as low as $40.

BUYER: For the load of broom corn Rube Graham just bought, more money than ever.

The picture is the same in other big broom corn growing areas in Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, and Illinois. Flood or drought in the various regions have cut the national harvest from last year's 44,000 tons to about 29,000 tons this year

Lindsay's boom and the low harvest will be reflected in higher prices (and less brooms) for housewives and factory users who normally buy 45,000,000 brooms made from the specially-grown corn.

The nation's rearmament program is expected to add to the shortage; during World War II, for instance, the military bought up about 25 per cent of all the brooms made in the U. S.

R. E. Kelly makes into finished product, a lot less brooms.

Report Sheep Can Produce Twice Yearly

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—Armour and Company reported yesterday that hormone experiments on sheep have shown they can be made to bear lambs twice a year instead of once a year.

Researchers for the packing company announced results of the experiments at the Colorado A and M. experiment station at Fort Collins. Dr. Frank X. Gassner, professor of endocrinology at the school, conducted the experiments.

He reported that he made injections of the hormone, gonadotrophin, in 535 sheep. All of them already had lambed once in the year, Dr Gassner reported, but after the injections 320 of them reacted to the hormone and were bred again.

The hormone costs 20 to 25 cents for each injection, but Armour announced it plans to conduct additional experiments to determine the best dosage, timing and formulae.

The gestation period for sheep is five months.

Four-horned sheep are found on the Isle of Man.

Warn Farmers Against Seed Racket Agents

Beware of the seed salesman who uses high-pressure selling methods. His glib sales talk sprinkled with such terms as "record yield" or "new varieties" and "limited supply" marks him as a gyp.

"The bogus seed racket, which developed in the Midwest in recent years, is rapidly spreading over other areas," says Capper's Farmer. "Salesmen are selling farmers seed that may be anything and everything but what it is claimed to be. The farmer who buys loses the money he paid for the seed and fails to make a good crop due to poor or unadapted seed."

How It Works

Here's how the seed racket works.

"A so-called seed company is set up overnight, with an office maintained in a large city as a front. A salesman will call on a farmer. He may claim to be representing a crop improvement association, an experiment station or a county agent. He uses high-pressure selling methods. He may claim the seed is certified. Often he doesn't even own the seed, but fills the advance orders from any seed he can obtain.

"Others actually buy certified seed and resell it at a much higher figure," the story continues. "Last year, one salesman bought seed oats at $2.50 and resold it at $3.75. Another salesman peddled a Kansas variety of winter wheat over a wide area in Minnesota where it was unadapted to the severe winters."

How It's Possible

"Apparently these men manage to stay just within the law or one jump ahead," the story says. "Usually they put nothing on paper. If the case comes to court it's the farmer's word against that of the seller.

"Reliable, legitimate companies do not make a lot of wild claims for their seed. For information on seed supplies and reliable sources farmers can consult county agents, agriculture instructors of local high schools and agricultural experiment station. Crop improvement associations, located at state colleges publish directories listing growers and companies whose seed has been certified."

Conflicting claims to water from streams produced countless court cases, even slayings, in the early west.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Where there is sorrow, there is holy ground.—Oscar Wilde.

• • •

For Human Dignity

In a rousing resolution passed at their last annual meeting, the members of the American National Live Stock Association, which is made up largely of cattle producers of the western range states, pointed to the menace of socialism, and strongly condemned it.

Here, in part, is what the resolution said: "Our country, without conscious choice on the part of its people, is rapidly and unmistakably drifting toward the consummation of a false concept—the socialized state.

"Tokens of this danger are everywhere and undeniable: The growing power and expansion of wasteful government; the colossal public debt; the heavy burden of taxation, the malicious attempt to substitute an artificial economy for the natural economy which alone can function in freedom; the gradual assumption by the state of financial responsibility for every hazard incident to life—hazards which should be personally met and borne by every human being who has the instinctive will to survive and the inherent impulse to be free.

"Government produces nothing and has no means by which to support these false and destructive theories except by exacting from its citizens the fruits of their labors . . .

"We . . . reaffirm our solemn conviction that the future health, strength and prosperity of our country depend on the re-establishment and maintenance of free and competitive enterprise and hereby pledge ourselves as individuals and as an association diligently and actively to work toward this objective and toward the defeat of the fallacious philosophies that are beguiling our country into socialism."

Every American who values freedom, human dignity and the security of his country should join the cattlemen in this high resolve.

A Sensible Observation

The state of Florida has been carrying on an aggressive campaign to gain new industries which are suited to its climate and location. In a recent radio address, Florida's Governor Fuller Warren said, "The Florida Power & Light Company . . . has put out a big advertisement featuring our efforts to promote the progress of this state. To my knowledge this is the first time that private enterprise has so recognized governmental leadership in Florida. It prompts me to make this observation: Our great system of private enterprise, aided and encouraged by government, both state and federal, is moving majestically on to even greater heights of public god." He then pointed out that Fortune had devoted a long feature article to the progressive work of this utility and its president.

This is not an isolated instance of how the investor-owned utilities work to advance the economic interests of their regions. All over the country these companies are doing their full part to get more business into the communities they serve, to increase payrolls, and to build the town and the state. They do it because it is good for them—as well as good for all others. Any utility's own future, obviously, will be determined by the future of the area.

There is no substitute for private enterprise as a force for betterment. That is true of the electric industry and every other industry. Private enterprise has to go ahead if it is to survive—in a dynamic economy no concern can stand still for long. It is always on the side of progress.

The promoters of the federal power program and the elected representatives of the people who are responsible for the billions that are being spent to put the government into the electric business, thus crippling or destroying taxpaying local electric companies, would do well to heed the Florida governor's observation—it makes sense.

Abundant Living

FRUSTRATIONS BECOMING FRUITFUL

We have seen how Jesus' life was not dammed but deflected by opposition and frustration. That very opposition can be a spur.

Glenn Cunningham, the man who became the fastest human in a mile race, was so badly burned as a lad that the doctors thought he would always be in an invalid's chair. The boy who was destined to be an invalid turned that destiny into becoming the world's fastest human. Whistler, the painter, wanted to be a soldier, but he failed at West Point and turned to the brush as a second choice. Walter Scott wanted to be a poet and gave up because he could not equal Byron. Ashamed of being a novelist, he wrote anonymously—but he gave the world Ivanhoe. A young university man had both his hands blown off in an explosion. Since he could no longer use his hands he decided to [illegible] use his head [illegible] and became a teacher in a great university. Phillips Brooks wanted to be a teacher, failed miserably, and turned reluctantly to being a preacher, becoming one of the world's greatest.

Someone asked a man about his constitution, and he replied: "That's gone long ago. I'm now living on the by-laws." Some people live better on their by-laws than most people on their constitutions. Kagawa [illegible] and effectively on one lung, and does more [illegible] than [illegible] do with two.

[illegible] difficulties and frustrations [illegible] Christian [illegible] have to do [illegible] Patmos for adhering to God's word [illegible]. But the verse continues: "On the Lord's day I found myself [illegible] in the Spirit and I heard a loud voice [illegible] saying: 'Write your vision.'" (Revelation 1:9-11, Moffatt.) Isolated from men, he saw heaven opened and received the vision of the coming victory. Isolation became revelation.

Are your life plans broken up? Then you can, by God's grace, make new and better ones.

Victorious Christ, impart to me Thy secret. For life turns inevitable again and again. I am powerless to change my surroundings—then let me change my soul. And through that changed soul I shall make of unavoidable surroundings the whetstone upon which my soul [illegible]. Amen.

Sam Goldwyn's representatives will meet with Eleanor Roosevelt about a trilogy on the life of FDR. The first is "Young Roosevelt," and takes him through his years as Navy secretary and up to the time when he was stricken with paralysis.

Don't look for MGM to toss Deborah Kerr and Sarah Churchill into the same picture. Sonja Henie could skate for the rest of her life on the ice generated when the two British dolls meet. The feud started when Sarah's hubby, Anthony Beauchamp, refused to photograph Deborah for a photo magazine because her political sympathies are with England's Labor Party.

STONE AGE FILMS FOR TV

Some oldies going way back to 1909 are being offered for television. Bidding actually is under way for rights to "Sweet Memories," starring Mary Pickford, Lottie Pickford, Jack Pickford and their mother (1909) and "The Mender of the Nets," with Mary Pickford and Mabel Normand.

J. Scott Smart, who's expected to be a new star when "The Fat Man" hits movie houses, won't be playing Captain Andy in MGM's "Showboat." His radio show rules the role out for him.

Gloria Swanson is still gulping. A Hollywood radio commentator introduced her as the actress who makes film history with her portrayal of Nora Prentiss in "Sunset Boulevard." She plays Norma Desmond.

JUST CALL HIM "HOPALONG"

There'll soon be a full line of John Wayne western outfits for kids on sale in stores across the country. But Wayne is back in naval uniform again in "Operation Pacific" at Warners . . . Dick Haymes, who secured a release from his radio sponsor in order to make personal appearances, is booked solidly until Christmas at a guarantee of $12,500 weekly.

Paramount has the inside track on "South Pacific," with Rodgers and Hammerstein as a Bing Crosby-Betty Hutton costarrer. The agreement would call for R. and H. to come out to Hollywood to produce.

FROM HARMON'S PHILOSOPHER

To the Editor,
Evening Telegraph,
Dixon, Ill.
Dear Sir:

It will soon be election time and the voters seem to be quarreling a little. The fellow that said the Republicans didn't know how to vote unless their leader told them who to vote for, that is a good joke for intelligent Republicans. Maybe the kind of leader he had in mind is that goat in the Chicago stock yards that leads the sheep to the slaughter house to get the mutton off them.

I always thought when a committeeman's party was out of power he was about as important as a buggy-whip salesman. If someone is trying to appoint a judge remember that Roosevelt tried to pack or sack the Supreme Court and failed. I think that the Republican instructor that went from city to city training Republicans how to get votes the Democrats probably call unfair competition. But from another angle if they got any smarter maybe they would vote Democratic. When Dewey ran the last time if anyone [illegible] to throw his power to the Republicans was greeted with a [illegible] of [illegible] betting [illegible] that Dewey would be elected and put up or shut up and they didn't need to help, them fellows don't need to be educated—they got it. But it was a poor way to solicit votes and helped beat Dewey.

I don't know anything about [illegible] the court is trying to prove Myers of being a rogue and of appropriating other people's money and property to his own use. In the two previous trials over state money they proved him the opposite. If he got any easy money he gave it away—presents in big chunks. All I was interested in was to see what the big moguls looked like from the Department of Conservation. I took it for granted there wouldn't be many birds to shoot at because I still think somebody was sucking eggs. The Democrats do things in a big way. Maybe we will be shooting buffalo on our game refuge and we might be doing it with a bow and arrow, too. The stockholders should appoint Myers manager of the theatre. Mr. Rorer would probably pay dividends on the stock.

To us Lincoln is our ideal of a President. His greatest achievement was to free the slaves and then when Roosevelt got elected he had to do it all over again. Pegler hates everything Roosevelt, but there was a bubble-head fanatic that shot Lincoln. We revere Lincoln's memory with statues over the country. The only thing wrong is they have him sitting down. A great man should be on a horse or at least standing up. I really don't know how I come to be a Democrat. Like Topsy I guess. I just grew. There is nothing smart about being a Democrat in Lee county. In the first place you got to have a hide that will make a better suit-case than an alligator. I know the only privilege the game warden gave me was to keep a left-handed coon. If I applied for a job the boss was always looking at shovel and pick catalogs.

In the south they call Truman "Red Ink Harry" and the Readers Digest claims he has spent more money than the last 32 presidents. Well, for crying out loud, if there isn't anyone that isn't spending as much as the last 32 presidents he is missing the best jamboree since we took it away from the Indians. And it isn't too late to start yet. You can, for a small down payment buy a limousine that you can thumb the windows up or down. Doors are thumbed open or shut but you can't thumb anything at the finance man because he probably has more notes on it than there is on a pipe organ. During the depression if you wanted $75,000 to buy some kind of a chariot the banker would take your blood pressure about three times, and before you paid him back they had to take his.

Hoover has some sensible ideas about economics and they would have worked when he was President, only we had a peculiar habit of wanting to eat once or twice a week. The only good thing about the depression was prohibition. All you had to do was watch for a guy with a deep crease in his nose [illegible] he wore glasses. The crease was made by drinking out of a fruit jar. And when you visited him at your earliest opportunity he would give you a drink that would feel like a bunch of firecrackers going off in your head when you swallowed it. All they had was a [illegible] steamed [illegible] out are [illegible] hydrogen [illegible] combined. The only [illegible] was [illegible] drank [illegible] exploded.

Another drawback was "Stormy" had the jail so full of hootch salesmen when he pushed one in he had to stick him with a pitchfork to get the door shut. And you couldn't bail one out to work because they got $5.00 a day and all they had to do was play cards.

The heart [illegible] an awful beating with [illegible] of 5 [illegible] monoxide gass [illegible] in the exhaust of autos, I think, is the trouble.

I agree with L. E. Young on drunk driving but I wish he would send his letters to the Sterling Gazette. It took them two years over there to find out whether you were to drink beer sitting down or standing up, let alone getting drunk. I agree with him that the government is getting too much in debt. Well, after all, Uncle Sam is just a mythical person and if he don't know how to take care of his money let him suffer. I guess there would be some complications if he went busted, so I will say L. E. is right again. I guess they do put stuff in the papers that we used to be embarrassed to discuss with our family doctor, but by putting in the names of violaters, regardless who it might be has gone a long way to curb drunk-driving [illegible] as a bogey man to make the kids behave.

• • •

When I was a kid a train would go thru with a big sign [illegible] across a box car. Simply "Read the Menace." I wanted to know what it meant and an old Irishman said all he knew about it was he was supposed to get mad. And he said he was mad and ready to fight. That is against the law to advertise on box cars now, but if that feel "Fern", I believe, that that is the editor is shielding someone he never even heard of on account of religion, I will say "Fern Read the Menace." It's probably still published.

• • •

If a fellow is old fashioned he is due for some embarrassing situations in a check up. Doc told me my heart was making a noise like a John Deere tractor, and wasn't so sure it was pumping the blood the right way. Did I have a snook? I told him four of them. I turned a corner on a private lawn in Miami last winter. Four women were playing cards with just shorts on. The only mistake I made was to stop, undecided which way to go. One of them said, "didn't you ever see a card game before, you big something or other?"

• • •

When I get feeling better I will tell you about a bobcat hunt I had down there with my hunting partner, Otto Hecker. He wouldn't go until I convinced him the wild-cats we were going to hunt do not hang around road-houses and don't play shuffle board. You had to chase them with dogs. Otto always walks ahead here, claims he is the best shot. I stay behind. Down there he insisted I was the best shot he ever hunted with and I had to walk ahead. I have an idea it was them diamondback rattlers that upped my standing as a nimrod. As those "crackers" said, one that hung from ceiling to floor was just a pup. And if one bit you very far from a doctor you might just as well sit down and smoke because if you haven't been a good boy you will be smoking anyway in about an hour.

A fellow that drank too much said if you get "snakes" often enough you are not afraid of them. Hunters there wear snake proof boots that look like wood. I guess a little wood in the head helps too when a fellow hunts in a place like that.

I always thought a Communist was a fellow who lost a soft political job when his party went out of power. They were the only ones I ever heard that wanted to overthrow the government and clean up the mess in Washington. I guess there are other kinds.

"Doc from Harmon"

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH!

To the Editor
Evening Telegraph,
Dixon, Ill.
Dear Sir,

Would you publish in your columns the following letter sent to the Income Tax Collector in Chicago. I think it is pretty good. Thanks.

A Reader.

Dear Collector,

In reply to your demand for a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My lamentable financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, mother-in-law, brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law and outlaws.

Through these laws I am compelled to pay business tax, amusement tax, school tax, gas tax, income tax, furniture tax, excise tax, taxes galore—even my brain is taxed.

I am required to get a business license, cigarette license, car license, car license, truck license, liquor license, food license, state license, government license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

Almost Ruined, He Says

I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life—to the women's relief, the unemployment relief, the gold diggers' relief, firemen's ball, policemen's ball, every imaginable relief and some racket reliefs. Also, to every hospital and charitable institution in the city including the Red Cross, Purple Cross and the Double Cross, and if I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined.

For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglary insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, tornado insurance, earthquake insurance, unemployment insurance, old age insurance, fire insurance, compensation insurance, dram shop insurance, car insurance and numerous other insurance.

Whose Business Is It?

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, fined, summoned, commanded and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

It looks as though my gross income next year will almost go around, but I wish you would get together and figure how you are going to divide it because it isn't possible for my C.P.A. to figure it out.

I am getting used to you and others taking it away from me, but you will have to allow me time to make it for you to collect or you will be as hard up as I am.

But do you want to know something, Mr. Collector? This is a wonderful country, and the only country to live in, and if Uncle thinks it best to request something, you can be assured that old John Q. Public is right behind him.

Faithfully yours,
John Q. Public

WORD FROM WASHINGTON

Editor Telegraph,
Dixon
Illinois
Dear Sir:

WASHINGTON wrote 31st May 1777 to the President of Congress: "I would only observe, without insinuating the most distant shadow of distrust of Monsieur Ducourdray's honor, candor or integrity, that, on the general maxims of prudence and policy, it may be questioned with much propriety whether so important a command as that of the artillery should be vested in any but a native or one attached by the ties of interest to these States."

Let us not forget Tokio Rose. She was born in America, educated in our public schools, then showed her gratitude for all this which practically cost her parents little, if anything, by doing everything possible through her radio broadcast to break down the morale of our homesick GIs in Asiatic waters.

If we allow our sympathy to control our judgment and we open our gates to all the oppressed of the world, we will not be performing a real service to anyone from the long time view. We will be hurting ourselves by permitting our own population to expand beyond the capacity of the soil to support it while at the same time we will only be affording temporary relief to those over-populated countries whose people we are accepting.

Yours truly,
Edwin Grant.

DIRKSEN VS. LUCAS DEBATE?

September 15, 1950.

I read your article of interest regarding Dirksen and Lucas.

I am the chairman of the Speakers Committee for Sauerkraut Day and I have invited Mr. Scott W. Lucas and Mr. Everett M. Dirksen to meet on Sauerkraut Day on a common platform and debate the issues of the day.

Mr. Dirksen has graciously accepted our invitation and he will speak on Sauerkraut Day regardless of Mr. Lucas accepting our invitation or not. To date we have not received an answer to our telegram to Mr. Lucas.

I thought this might be a news item of interest to you.

Very truly yours,

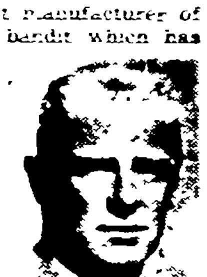
It Seems That Jimmy Roosevelt Had a Neat Tie-Up With the Largest Manufacturuer of Slot Machines



Westbrook Pegler

New York—The company called Mills Industries, Inc., formerly known as Mills Novelty Company, is the foremost manufacturer of the gambling machine known as the one-armed bandit which has been at the bottom of so much official corruption and gangsterism for many years. The machine itself, of course, is as innocent as any deck of cards or pair of dice, except as otherwise provided by law in most of the territory of the United States. It is supposed to give gum. If the operators don't make it give gum, can the manufacturer be blamed?

Mills Industries, Inc., owns or did own at my latest information, 75 per cent of Soundies Distributing Corp., of Delaware. The date of my information is Jan. 5, 1945, and the source is a credit agency dealing strictly in this type of information. However, inasmuch as I am about to discuss certain financial interests of Jimmy Roosevelt, who with the assistance of the first lady of the world, is campaigning for the governorship of California, the time is appropriate even though changes probably have occurred since then.

Twenty per cent of Soundies Distributing Corp., was owned by Globe Productions, Inc., "controlled by James Roosevelt."

"This subsidiary leases films to the operators of machines purchased from Mills Industries, Inc." The report continues: "R. C. M. Productions, Inc.," another Mills subsidiary, "incorporated 1941 California law, 60 per cent owned by Mills Industries."

Joint Promoters

Incidentally, 1941 was about the time that Jimmy and the Mills people were jointly promoting with typical Hollywood dignity a venture in ten cent movies viewed through a machine on the order of the juke-box. The report says R. C. M. Productions, Inc., was producing master negatives for "panoram" machines manufactured by the parent company.

So now where are we? It comes to this: Jimmy got up a movie company called Globe Productions to make movies to be shown in machines manufactured by Mills. This Globe Company owned 20 per cent of a Mills subsidiary organized to distribute the films to the operators of machines bought from Mills. Make you a little dizzy? I don't see how you can simplify it.

Suppose we just come to an understanding that Jimmy R. and the Mills outfit were very close business associates and that the slot machine business, always in need of friends in politics, never had had one in the White House itself.

Now I will try to depict for you a tasty brochure turned out in the fall of 1940 to celebrate the debut of panoram in the blossom and Florentine rooms of the Roosevelt hotel, Hollywood and the Waldorf Astoria, N. Y. The Hollywood party came first. The Waldorf gala was yet to come when this booklet was printed. Its cover reads "spinning reels presents panoram. New York premiere, Waldorf Astoria Oct. 21-22." The next page says: "Sixteen Rogers the famous panoram girl will be hostess at Mills open house Sunday Oct. 20 at the New York soundies preview Smorgasbordd. Special entertainment."

Kooch Posture

Page four: Picture of girl without much on in a sort of kootch posture. Cut line says "Carman D'Antonio, latest Hollywood dance sensation, in a scene from 'Jungle Drums', a Mills panoram soundie."

Now we begin to go to town. There are eight pictures of Jimmy and several Millses, slot machine dignitaries and movie people.

"We went to Hollywood," the print says. "To unveil panoram. We went to Hollywood to show soundies for the first time, the three-minute films with sound, automatically played for a dime. We gave the most glamorous city in the world a touch of the old Mills spirit, that magical something which when once felt by an outside object, changes its complexion then and forever. They said we would be lucky to have 100 people at our press party, but in swarmed 5,000, the biggest party ever held in Hollywood. A thousand coin machine distributors, operators and service men planed, trained and motored across the country for this historic preview. Fred Mills, leader of the Mills Clan, held out a hearty hand of greeting and Jimmy Roosevelt, as great a trouper as ever took a curtain call, hosted a mighty throng with the skill and eclat of America's number one showman."

Touching Reference

Skipping a few pages we come to a symbolic reference to the fruit that wins by the eyes of the sucker on the wheels of the one-armed bandit. There is a photograph of a great heap of oranges, plums, cherries and lemons. The language below it said this was the table decoration at a Hollywood breakfast for 100 given by the Mills house organ, Spinning Reels.

The invitation to the New York party at the Waldorf says "the Waldorf has a reputation for exclusiveness but don't let that word bother you."

It's No Bother

It didn't bother Jimmy. Announcements went out promising pretty hostesses among many other attractions.

A young woman who desires to be anonymous because she works in radio and television and might be whispered out by the Roosevelt cult, reports that when she was an army service club director at Camp Kilmer during W. W. II, panoram machines were installed at three service clubs, one officers' club and three or four PX's in spite of a regulation forbidding vending machines and forbidding payment for entertainment.

"The service club director demanded that they be moved out," she writes, "but the men said 'orders.'

"'Whose orders?' Nobody knew. Neither did the post commander. 'Shall I accept it?' he was asked.

"'Hell, no' was the answer.

Neat Racket

"It came back two more times. The GI's dug deeply into their change. Ten cents a picture—a reel that consumed 90 to 120 seconds. There were from 15 to 20 at our camp alone."

The brochure animated by the smiling countenance of America's number one showman who desires to be California's wartime governor closed with this affectionate note from Fred Mills the custodian of great traditions of the house whose honored name he bears: "We at Mills are extremely happy to have James Roosevelt as a partner."

COILED WINDPIPE

The whooping crane is enabled to sound its peculiar trumpeting call by means of an unusually long windpipe much of which is coiled against its breastbone.

No two ocelots are marked alike and even the two sides of each individual animal are different.

The National Geographic Society says Korea has 10 better than average harbors and 27 secondary ones.

Remember Three Rules to Keep Hubby Interested

In all the advice offered women on how to keep men interested in them through the years the three most important rules are usually overlooked.

Maybe it's because they aren't easy rules to follow. Nevertheless they are the rules that really pay off.

The first is: Develop an independence of spirit so that your man knows that you aren't completely dependent on him. That if necessary you could stand on your own two feet.

A man soon grows weary of the woman who is [illegible]. It's a bigger load than any human being likes to carry.

The second is: Realize that you must create your own happiness. The woman who expects a man to devote his life to making her happy, or whose moods are nothing more than a reflection of his moods, is never going to be a happy person.

And no man [illegible] comfortable around an unhappy woman—even if she never complains.

The third is: Don't settle down into a rut. Keep changing. Keep learning. Keep getting new ideas. Keep developing new interests. When a man comes home and asks "What's new?" have something to tell him. Answer "Nothing much" too many times—and he'll not only quit asking but quit wondering what you are doing with your time.

They're Not Easy—But They're Worth While

Those aren't easy rules to follow, because [illegible] require [illegible] that you [illegible] that you be something.

Yet you can't really expect to be interesting to anyone—even to those you love—unless you are somebody in your own right—a person who is independent of spirit, who can find happiness in doing things instead of expecting happiness to be handed over by someone else, and [illegible] going ahead instead of settling down in a comfortable rut.

Businessmen Look Ahead to Weather; Put in Requests

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Sept. 19—(AP)—An early fall and a long cold winter would delight some industries. Some businessmen can even tell you on what day of the week they'd like you to get your feet wet.

But an early freeze would hamstring another set of industries. Both groups would like to know right now what the first crisp days foretell—dry or slushy, mild or bitter days ahead.

"We like to see cold rain fall late in October, following by some fast melting snow on working days—weekend snow is no good," says Raymond H. Blanchard, president of the Hood Rubber Co., Watertown, Mass. He's talking about the sales prospects for the waterproof rubber footwear industry. It seems people don't buy until they get their feet wet and catch cold.

Early Snow Means Demand

"If a heavy snowstorm hits metropolitan areas by Dec. 15, we're bound to have a heavy demand," Blanchard says. "Snow after Feb. 1 doesn't help much—people make their old rubbers and gaiters last."

Fuel oil and coal dealers and gas and oil producers also eye the coming winter. They too, didn't do so well in the last two unusually warm ones.

"Weather can catch oil refiners unprepared if they are not continually watchful," says Chester F. Smith, vice president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

Weather Problem

"On the other side, the weather is a long-range, or tidal problem. My company has recently made a study which seems to show there has been a persistent tendency toward warmer weather in the New York City area in particular and for the whole country in general during the past 100 years or so."

Steel Needs

But a late fall is eagerly hoped for by the steel industry. Shipments of iron ore on the Great Lakes are running around 10 million tons behind last year, because the carriers were held up by ice for a month last spring. The longer the ice stays out of the lake this winter the better the steel industry will like it.

Admit Thefts, Claim

According to the sheriff's office, the boys admitted thefts in some 21 Illinois towns and villages.

Another indictment was returned against William G Allen, 22, Chicago, one of two men charged with robbing the Poplar Grove bank early in July.

Allen admitted stealing the stickup car in Dixon. It was owned by Burel M. Branson, 516 Lincoln avenue.

Allen, now in a Freeport federal jail, will face a federal bank robbery charge before Lee county prosecutes him for the auto theft.

United Nation Forces Race Toward Seoul

southwest bank of the Han.

Korean Reds rolling north in motorized columns faced the task of fighting through this barrier to Seoul or running the right flank.

As Red Koreans streamed out of positions on the southwest Korean front on their northward flight, allied forces punched ahead there.

They seized Waegwan, fought into the hilltop walled city of Kasan, put at least 4,000 men across the Nakton and a bridge over the river—at in the center of the old 125 mile perimeter—and forged gains on the Masan and Pohang ends.

"Big Mo" in Action

The South Korean third division entered Pohang port after the Battleship Missouri's big guns had pounded Reds in the bitterly-disputed east coast port.

Armed four-engined transport planes landed in a steady stream throughout Tuesday afternoon at Kimpo airfield, 12 miles northwest of Seoul. The Marines seized it Sunday night.

The big planes brought supplies and troops to the front, bulwarking the thousands of fighting men and hundreds of tons of equipment still flowing ashore at Inchon, 22 miles west of Seoul.

The bag of Communist prisoners mounted to nearly 2,000 since the second front landings began Friday at Inchon. Hundreds of Reds had been killed.

Plenty of Equipment

Thousands of tanks, trucks, amphibious tractors and other river crossing equipment moved toward the Han river in solid columns.

All along the 125-mile perimeter of the old southeast beachhead, allied forces drove ahead. In some sections Red Korean opposition had vanished, but in others the Reds still resisted fiercely.

AP Correpondent Jack MacBeth reported U. S. 24th division infantrymen marched into Waegwan on the heels of fleeing Reds and moved one and one-half miles northwest of the town.

Waegwan is 12 miles northwest of Taegu on "heartbreak highway"—the main road back to Seoul. Waegwan had been a key point of Red resistance against the allied push to crack out of the old beachhead.

45 Horses Die in Blaze at Sunset Academy Stables

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—Forty five horses died early today in a stable fire at the Sunset Riding Academy in Leyden township near Chicago's West limits.

Only two of 47 animals quartered in the building escaped.

Sgt. Elmer Nelson of the Cook county highway police said the fire was started by lightning.

Louie Brims, trainer at the academy, said the horses killed included livery ponies, and some thoroughbred show horses and jumpers.

Stable hands who attempted to rescue the animals were driven back by dense smoke and flame. The stable barn housing the lost horses was destroyed. A nearby barn containing 30 other hores was undamaged.

The academy is owned by Mrs Andrew C. Thompson, Chicago horsewoman who is well known in show circles. Two of her blue-ribbon showhorses died. They were Red Flash and Beau Champ.

Travelogue of a Publisher

By Mrs. Mabel S. Shaw

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Mabel S. Shaw, publisher of The Evening Telegraph, Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Shaw and Mrs. H. U. Bardwell, all of Dixon, are on a motor trip through the south, southwest, and Mexico, and herewith is published a letter Mrs. M. S. Shaw has written to other members of her family.

The following letter is No. 27 in the series by Mrs. Shaw.

De San Jose Purna Hotel
September 3, 1950

My Dear Family:

I wonder if you are not becoming weary with all these Mexican letters? Well, you know you don't have to read them, but you might save them for me and sometime at my leisure I can review them and recall the places I have seen.

We have had the nicest time at this lovely resort hotel. A little more social life than elsewhere. Everyone is friendly and so many guests here from the states makes us feel at home.

There is a New York lady here and she knows Jane Peterson, well. We met a doctor and his wife from Kansas City, they know B. Hockaday, Clara Stager's husband.

I met the mother of DeLores Del Rio who with her noted daughter are guests here. She is a very cultivated person. We talked about Louella Parsons. They are very close friends she said. They also know Ronald Reagan.

Some New Orleans people know various people that are mutual friends and this all makes you realize how small the world is. In passing by it's a diversion and a pleasant one for the traveller.

Tuesday we will be on our way to encounter new scenes and new customs for every locality has a variation.

We will miss this gorgeous place. The beauty of which is incomparable. It will be one of the unforgettable ventures as time goes on and worthwhile holding a place in our memory.

Goodnight, again with much love
Mother.

Pinned to Bottom of River Nine Hours, Diver Survives

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 19—(AP)—Trapped thirty feet below the river's surface for nearly nine hours in shifting mud and sand and total darkness . . .

That was the experience yesterday of Charles Delps, 45, a professional diver.

Pinned to Bottom

Delps was cutting damaged steel dock pilings about 150 feet from the Mississippi river bank south of here. Two of the beams fell across the lower part of his back and leg, pinning him to the river bottom.

With the help of another diver, John (Red) Edgings, Delps tried to free himself by washing away mud from beneath himself with a pressure hose. A sudden wave of pressure swept Edging away.

Delps' wife was summoned to a barge at the scene of the rescue operation. As the day wore on, fear spread that the diver might be fighting a losing battle against cold and shock, a possible break in his airline, or burial under the drifting mud.

Never Unconscious

At no time was Delps unconscious. He talked with rescue workers and his wife through a telephone in his diving suit. And finally he managed to free himself by using the pressure hose.

A dozen men on the barge cheered as Delps came to the surface. His wife kissed and hugged him. The professional diver, who makes about $18,000 a year by working with danger as a partner, laughed and joked. The penetrating cold had bothered him, he said, but he was uninjured.

As the Granite City diver left for a hospital, he announced: "I'll be back at work tomorrow."

S POTLIGHT on SPORT S

By MARSH JONES
Sports Editor

THE POLO VFW POST sponsored a "Half Century of Baseball" celebration last Sunday and the following notables were present: Ward Miller, Hi Emmert, Red Vaile and Bill Bushman . . . Approximately 250 fans watched the Old Timers defeat the Woosung Ludwigs, champions of the Big Six league, by a 7-5 margin . . . It was a grand climax to 1950 baseball in the Polo area.

• • • •

THE OLD-TIMER LINEUP included: 1b-Wehmeyer, 2b-Christ, ss-Snodgrass, 3b-Martin (relieved Frey in 7th), rf-May, cf-Weaver, lf-Rucker, c-Smith and p-Wint Frey . . . The Ludwigs collected only one earned run off the slants of pitcher Frey . . . If the Old-Timers get any more confidence, we'll probably see them playing in the Big Six league next season . . . They could certainly provide some interesting games around the circuit.

• • • •

BILL TUMAN, MOTORCYCLE racing expert from Rockford, won the five-mile national racing championship at Des Moines, Iowa, last Sunday . . . Tuman set a new track record of 4.45.64 in defeating Paul Albrecht, Sacramento, California, who had won the last two years . . . Tuman led in 23 of the 26 laps.

• • • •

THE BIG EIGHT CONFERENCE didn't fare too well against the competition in last Friday night's opening football games . . . Only two, West Aurora and LaSalle-Peru, won their games . . . West topped Naperville, 34-6, and LaSalle beat Ottawa, 7-0 . . . Freeport's supposedly powerful Pretzels were blasted, 19-6, by Dubuque . . . Joliet lost to Marmion Military, 14-12 . . . Elgin couldn't reach the Maine Township club; lost 19-6 . . . West Rockford ran into a good Rock Island team and dropped the game, 21-6.

• • • •

EAST AURORA COULDN'T match Hinsdale and lost, 12-6. Beloit took East Rockford, 7-6 . . . The Big Eight had some rough competition in every one of the games but doesn't look to be as powerful as some years . . . Of course some of the teams will come along fast and change the picture.

• • • •

FOUR NORTH CENTRAL TEAMS looked impressive in downing their opponents . . . Mendota's Larry Lau seems ready to roll at his halfback post . . . He scored four touchdowns as Mendota beat Amboy, 29-0 . . . Sterling was sharp in downing Sterling Community, 27-0 . . . DeKalb's 34-6 triumph over Sycamore was a tip-off on that club, and Hall's 19-12 victory in a game with Peoria Central may mean a really rough club in Spring Valley.

NCAA Athletic Committee Sets Tourney Dates

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—Dates and sites for 1951 National Collegiate Athletic Association championships in golf, wrestling and ice hockey have been set by the group's executive committee.

Ohio State University will be host to the golf tourney, June 24-30; Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., is site of the wrestling meet, March 23-24; and Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colo., has the ice hockey tourney, March 15-16-17.

The executive group concluded a two-day meeting today without comment on the status of several proposed amendments to the NCAA's controversial "sanity code."

The climax to the whole code scrap is expected at the NCAA's 45th annual convention in Dallas, Tex., Jan. 10-13.

The executive committee yesterday named Ralph H. Young, Michigan State college athletic director, to head a five-man committee to spearhead the NCAA's fund raising campaign for the 1952 Olympic games and next winter's Pan-American games in Buenos Aires.

Musial Swings Away at Fourth Batting Title

New York, Sept. 19—(AP)—Only the severest of slumps can keep Stan Musial from a fourth National league batting title. The St. Louis Cardinal slugger, sporting a neat 352 average, looks like a shoo-in.

Musial is 19 points ahead of his closest pursuer—Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, the defending champ.

Robin Roberts Tries for 20th Win Tonight

Faces Chicago Cubs, Winners Of 4 Straight

Philadelphia, Sept. 19—(AP)—Back in 1917, two world wars ago, the Philadelphia Phillies had a pitcher who won more than 20 games in one season. They haven't had one since.

Tonight that not-so-glorified record might be altered, unless the opposing Chicago Cubs get winning ideas of their own.

• • •

Robin Roberts, ace of the 1950 Phillies' mound corps that has pitched the Whiz Kids to within touching distance of the National league pennant, is after his 20th victory—a feat last accomplished by Grover Cleveland Alexander.

• • •

It was Alexander who hurled the Phils to the only pennant they ever captured way, way back in 1915. That year he won 31; in 1916 he won 33.

Today the Phils are leading the league by 7½ games and need only eight victories in their next 13 games to clinch the pennant, providing their two closest opponents win every contest. Of course, each time second-place Boston loses it means the Phils have to win one less game to capture the NL flag.

Roberts, one of only two able-bodied starting pitchers remaining on the Phils' bench, has won 19 against eight defeats. He's beaten the Cubs twice this season, lost once.

Wants to Win

"Tonight's the game I want to win more than any other game I've pitched," the 25-year-old right-hander said.

The pennant-driving Phils, luckily avoiding the doctor's office the first five months of the campaign, are now finding sickness and injury the only roadblock in their path.

Four key players have been lost since Sept. 1. Outfielder Dick Sisler has been sidelined by a wrist injury. Bill Nicholson, another outfielder, was hospitalized with diabetes. And then rookie hurlers Bubba Church and Bob Miller were put out of action temporarily—Church was struck in the face by a batted ball and Miller has a sore shoulder muscle.

Simmons Gone Too

Earlier, the Phils lost pitcher Curt Simmons to the army.

That leaves Roberts and Russ Meyer as the only starting pitchers. And Manager Eddie Sawyer said he'll probably use these two the rest of the week—providing everything goes okay.

Should Roberts or Meyer falter there's always fireman Jim Konstanty who has made 66 relief appearances this season. And if Jim needs help Sawyer can call on Ken Heintzelman, Blix Donnelly or Ken Johnson. None of these three have come up to expectations but on a few brief occasions they've shown flashes of brilliance.

Sawyer said he hopes "somebody makes a comeback. Right now my pitching selections are all up in the air."

Every one but Roberts tonight, that is.

Middlecoff Wins St. Louis Open Over Ed Oliver

St. Louis, Sept. 19—(AP)—It took a "sudden death" playoff, but Cary Middlecoff finally won top money of $2,600 yesterday in the St. Louis Open golf tournament.

Middlecoff and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle wound up in a tie in the $15,000 tournament at the end of regular play Sunday. Each had a 270.

Yesterday they went into an 18-hole playoff to determine the winner. At the end of the 18 holes each had a 67, necessitating the "sudden death" extra holes.

Middlecoff, of Ormond Beach, Fla., sank a 20-foot putt for an eagle three on No. 20. That was the payoff.

Oliver received $1,900.

Kinder Hurls Red Sox Past Detroit Club

By MURRAY ROSE
(AP Sportswriter)

The talk was all of "Kinder, Kinder, Kinder" as the fired-up Boston Red Sox steamed into Cleveland today for a two-game series with the Indians.

After Cleveland comes the vital two-day set with the Yankees in New York Saturday and Sunday. But the hustlers from Boston weren't looking that far ahead.

"Win 'em today and worry about tomorrow, tomorrow," was the motto of every man from Manager Steve O'Neill down as they looked fondly in the direction of Ellis Kinder.

• • •

And well they might. For it was Kinder again who saved the "big one" against Detroit in the ninth yesterday just as he did the day before. On the strength of those great rescues the Red Sox won them both, 3-2, and today rested in second place, a game behind the pace-setting Yanks and a half length in front of Detroit.

• • •

It was the fifth time in the last five days that O'Neill waved the 36-year-old Arkansas native to "come on in and stop 'em."

"I wanted to give him the day off," said Steve. "I knew he was tired and I told him he could have the day off."

"'No,' he says to me, 'you might need me, Steve. I think I can work an inning for you.'"

He did—and what an inning!

The Sox had come from behind a 2-1 count to score twice in the ninth for a 3-2 lead.

Nixon Leaves

Rookie Willard Nixon, who had pitched fine six-hit ball in a duel with Detroit's doughty Hal Newhouser, pitched three straight balls to lead-off man Joe Ginsberg. That was all for Nixon.

"Bring in Kinder," called O'Neill.

Kinny pumped in two strikes but finally walked Ginsberg. He was the last Tiger to get on. Pinch-hitter Pat Mullin sacrificed but another sub swinger, Charley Keller, popped out and then Gerry Priddy grounded out.

Billy Goodman, Boston's league-leading hitter, singled to start the winning rally in the ninth. Ted Williams' chopper gave him an infield hit. And when Newhouser threw wild past first, Goodman went to third. Obviously disturbed, Newhouser took a full windup on Vern Stephens and Williams stole second.

Williams Scores

Out came Newhouser and in stepped Hal White. White intentionally passed Stephens to load the bases. Walt Dropo singled to score Goodman with the tying run. Bobby Doerr flied deep to center to bring home Williams with the winning run.

Boston-Detroit was the only game in the American league yesterday. There weren't too many games in the National, either. Chicago beat Brooklyn, 9-7, and New York routed St. Louis, 13-0.

Ron Northey's pinch-homer with the bases loaded in the seventh ruined Brooklyn and overshadowed a three-homer performance by the Dodgers' Tom Brown.

Larry Jansen's two-hit pitching was backed by a 13-hit New York barrage against St. Louis hurling. It was Jansen's fifth whitewash job and his 17th victory against 12 defeats. The win moved the fourth place Giants within a half game of third place Brooklyn.

The University of Idaho will face three new football opponents in 1950—Texas Western, Boston U., and Arizona State of Tempe.

Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians struck out five times in one game in 1948.

Kiner Came Out of Navy to Blast Homers for Pirates

(Editor's Note: This is a story of Ralph Kiner, tells of his swift rise to major league stardom after serving in the U. S. navy.)

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19—(AP)—Big Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates went from the navy air corps to top place among National league sluggers in 1946 in a terrific rush.

The war interrupted his minor league career, and he was just one of a score of hopefuls that reported to the Pirate training camp in San Bernardino, Calif., that spring.

The Pirate regulars watched in astonishment as he lashed long drives out of the palm-fringed lot. Manager Frankie Frisch, starting his final year as the Buc pilot, watched, too, and was impressed.

The famed Kiner bat began to boom. He wound up his first season with 23 homers to lead the National league.

Gives Credit

In typical fashion, Kiner hastens to give most of the credit to a teammate, Hank Greenberg. The former American league slugger was imported from Detroit by the new Pirate owners that year.

Greenberg connected for 25 homers in his only season as a Pirate. Kiner, his roommate and one notch up on the batting order, rapped 51 to tie the Giants' Johnny Mize for the league lead.

"I owe an awful lot to Hank," Kiner declares.

Kiner frankly admits that the erection of the controversial "Greenberg gardens" at Forbes Field helped a lot.

1949 Was Tops

In 1948 Ralph slipped a little. His four-bagger output was 40, still enough to lead the league. In 1949 he finished with 54, the last one at the seasons end.

When the 1950 season was about to start, the Pirate star injured his magic right wrist.

Then in mid-August Kiner twisted his back trying to nab a fly and had to don a special corset for a time. Right now he's bothered with a siege of hay-fever which usually plagues him in late summer of each year.

Still Hits 'Em

Despite all this, the big clouter in late August moved ahead of his homer production of last year and for a time was abreast of Ruth's pace of 1927 when he registered the record 60.

Ralph concedes he can't expect to beat Ruth's mark this year.

"But I hope I'll do it eventually," he says.

Goodman's Lead In Batting To Be Hard to Catch

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—Boston's Billy Goodman apparently will be hard to catch in the waning American league batting race. Entering the semi-final week of the campaign, Goodman's .358 gave him a 17-point lead.

Billy faded three points last week, but second-spot George Kell of Detroit dropped four to .341.

Dixon High Football Notes

Coach Sam Owens sent his Dixon high school football team through a good workout Monday night. Owens worked with the backfield and Coach Lon Scofield handled the line in assignment practice.

Dixon came through the Lyons game in good physical condition. The injuries were limited to the usual bumps and bruises.

A casualty in the backfield may cause Coach Owens to make a change or two in plans. Dick Brunnett, a good halfback prospect, has been sidelined with a hand injury. He had his right hand caught in a truck door and the thumb and fore-finger were painfully crushed. Brunnett is a 170-pound junior candidate for the Duke grid team. The 17-year-old stands 5-10 and was developing fast. He may be ready for the Sterling game a week from Friday.

Amboy, a 29-0 victim of Mendota last week, will be here this Friday night. Mendota is listed as one of the better NCIC clubs and Amboy won't be taken lightly by the Dixon coaching staff.

The Clippers averaged 32 yards in punting against the Trojans. They were penalized only 25 yards during the grid clash.

LaMotta Faces 'Sugar Ray' in February Bout

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—The date of the Jake LaMotta-Ray "Sugar" Robinson 15 round battle in the Chicago Stadium has been set for Feb. 14. It will be for the middleweight championship, with LaMotta defending his title.

The contest will be the sixth involving them. LaMotta won one of the previous five, with Robinson taking the other four.

Bierman Shuffles Minnesota Gridders

Illinois Gains Defensive End, OK'd by Wilson

Chicago, Sept. 19—(AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota has promoted five players, including four sophomores, to the starting offensive team in the most drastic shakeup since the Gophers began practice two weeks ago.

The surprise action came yesterday. Promotions and demotions—were based on Saturday's scrimmage.

Bierman put individuals and groups to jogging around the track for long periods after plays miscued.

Observers believe Bierman is keenly disappointed with the progress of the Gophers thus far.

Notes from other conference schools:

Illinois—The Illini gained a defensive end, Sophomore Gene Hansen of Oak Park, Ill., who transferred to Colorado last fall, but re-entered Illinois this month. His eligibility was confirmed by Big Ten Athletic Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson.

Northwestern — Veteran Halfback Gene Miller and No. 2 Center Chuck Petter were back after missing a week because of injuries. However, Ben Daniel, linebacking center, and Wally Jones, sophomore halfback, will be sidelined for another two weeks. Two-a-day workouts end today for the Wildcats.

Wisconsin—The Badgers took things easy while many squad members registered for classes. Coach Ivy Williamson spent some time polishing up the running attack.

Michigan — Don Strozewski, Michigan's star sophomore tackle from South Bend, Ind., is in the hospital with a knee injury.

Michigan State—Coach Biggie Munn said the Spartans need a considerable amount of "tuning up" before they meet Oregon State here Saturday. Workouts will be reduced from two to one a day for the rest of the week.

Iowa—Protection of passers and running back punts featured a light workout after the first scrimmage of the year last Saturday. Only casualty from Saturday's workout was Fullback Bill Reichardt, who suffered a minor knee injury.

Ohio State—The buckeyes returned to two-a-day drills with 10 players sidelined with injuries.

Indiana—The defense worked on blocking punts against the spread punt formation. Bobby Robertson, the conference leader last year, did most of the kicking.

Notre Dame — Billy Barrett, regular right half, has a bruised ankle as a result of Saturday's scrimmage and will be out at least a week. Also injured were Tackle Bill Flyn and End Chet Ostrowski. Flynn suffered a hip injury and Ostrowski strained a neck muscle. The Irish reviewed plays in a long dummy scrimmage session.

Babe Ruth led the American League in drawing bases on balls for 11 seasons during his career.

Plan Historic Galena Tour Weekend of September 30

Galena, Ill.—The week-end of Sept. 30-Oct. 1 has been named as the dates for the premiere pilgrimage into the homes of historic Galena, Ill., according to Mrs. Walter Ehret, chairman of the Tour Historic Galena Homes committee. The project is sponsored by Guild members of the First Presbyterian church of Galena, itself the oldest church in the state still being used regularly for worship services.

Located in the northwest corner of Illinois, Galena was founded in 1826 and was for many years the hub for exploration and provisioning all settlements and forts in the Old Northwest territory.

Cultured Living

Easy money, gained from the neighboring lead mines, and easier money, garnered from the brisk Mississippi packet trade, enabled a mode of cultured and hospitable living that was reflected in the palatial homes built on Prospect Heights and furnished with treasures brought from Europe by early Atlantic Seaboard settlers or transported by boat up the broad Father of Waters from New Orleans and Cincinnati.

Two-Day Tour

According to Mrs. Ehret private historic documents relating to the early and the Civil War period (to which Galena contributed not only General U. S. Grant but eight other outstanding generals and high officers) can be inspected during the two-day tour. Additional information can be obtained by writing Tour Historic Galena Homes, Galena, Illinois.

Eureka College Wall Is Flattened By Explosion

Eureka, Ill., Sept. 19—(AP)—A brick wall of a dormitory being built at Eureka College was flattened in an explosion Sunday night.

There were no injuries reported. Sheriff J. Wallace Minor said the wall 10 feet high and 35-feet long—probably was dynamited. He said hundreds of windows were broken in the area.

He said cause of the blast was unknown but reported there had been some talk of labor trouble on the dormitory project.

M'Arthur Has Proof Soviets Aided N. Korea

Lake Success, Sept. 19—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur was reported to have informed the United Nations he has positive evidence that Russia supplied munitions to North Korea in 1949 and 1950 and that Communist China supplied "trained manpower."

Informed quarters said MacArthur made his statement in his latest report to the security council as commander of U. N. forces in Korea. The report was received by U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie this morning, but it has not yet been made public.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik has insisted that Russia has given the Korean Communists no military supplies since 1948, when the Soviet army was withdrawing from North Korea.

There was no indication what sort of munitions MacArthur referred to nor whether his reference to Chinese "trained manpower" meant troops, advisers, or perhaps technicians.

Chinese Nationalist Delegrate T. F. Tsiang charged last week that two Chinese Red divisions from Manchuria were in action in Korea but U. N. sources said they had no confirmation of this.

Loyalty Doubtful; Loses $10,000 Job

Washington, Sept. 19—(AP)—Commerce Department officials said today a department loyalty board has made an adverse finding against Michael Lee, and has been suspended from his $10,000 a year job in that agency.

The finding, handed down without announcement September 8, already has been challenged by Lee. His attorneys are preparing an appeal to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, officials said.

This finding reverses a clearance given Lee when the department board said a year ago: "Reasonable grounds do not exist to believe that you may be disloyal to the government of the United States."

Lee, 42, was born in Manchuria of Russian ancestry. He was head of the Far East branch of the department's office of international trade before his loyalty was put under question in October, 1948.

President Signs Bill Giving Marshall Okeh

Washington, Sept. 19—(AP)—President Truman signed today the bill allowing Gen. George C. Marshall to become secretary of defense. The White House said Marshall's formal nomination to the post would be sent to the senate for confirmation at once.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Marshall has asked that he be sworn into office at the Pentagon without any special ceremony. He can't take the oath, of course, until the senate approves him or before Louis Johnson steps out as defense secretary tomorrow.

Ross said Truman also signed a bill authorizing him to appoint Gen. Omar N. Bradley to the permanent five star rank of general of the army.

Public Opinion Powerful in Law Enforcement--Stevenson

Washington, Sept. 19—(AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said today that "public indifference and cynicism" are the greatest stumbling blocks to effective law enforcement.

Stevenson said that an active public opinion offers the "ultimate answer to the menace of organized crime and to the problem of tax law enforcement."

Public Opinion Powerful

In a speech prepared for the American Bar association's annual meeting, the governor declared that public opinion too often is a "sleeping giant."

"We have already had too many cycles of reform and relapse, too many moral crusades followed by business as usual," he added.

Stevenson said that organized crime cannot thrive "without the active support of many elements of the community, nor without the passive support of many more elements."

"The solid citizen who thinks that illegal slot machines are just fine for his country club but bad for the corner saloon does not realize what difficulties he is making for the persons he has elected to enforce the laws."

2,700 Slots in State

Of 2,700 gambling machines now registered for federal tax purposes in 76 Illinois counties, he said, about 800 are in taverns and other public places.

"The other 1,900 are in the country clubs, the fraternal organizations, the veterans' clubs, the army posts and other places with which we do not customarily associate law violation, organized or unorganized," he asserted.

The "happy hunting ground" of organized crime, he added, is "in the area where too many people are disposed to participaate in the breaking of a law."

Stevenson said he had ordered the state police crackdown on Illinois gambling "as a last resort" because "some local officers failed to act."

Divorce Crime, Politics

To improve law enforcement, crime and politics must be divorced, he said.

He said more "truly professional" police forces are needed and that recruiting and training practices should be improved. He said police should be paid salaries "that are not an invitation to graft and corruption."

He suggested the entire law enforcement structure be re-examined with a view to eliminating obsolete and duplicating provisions.

Sen. Tydings Renominated; Wiley to Win?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Alexander Wiley was counted upon to win Republican renomination in Wisconsin today following the primary victory of another senator, Democrat Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Tydings, chairman of the senate armed services committee won renomination for a fifth term yesterday after a campaign in which opponents had charged him with lax conduct of a Communist-in-government investigation.

Wins 2 to 1

Incomplete returns gave Tydings nearly a 2 to 1 margin over the combined vote of two opponents, Hugh J. Monaghan II and former Rep John A Meyer, both of Baltimore. With 990 of 1429 polling places reporting, the count was, Tydings 111,920, Monaghan, 31,454, Meyer 28,860.

Today the political picture shifted to Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

Wiley was generally rated an excellent chance to defeat Edward J. Finan, Bristol businessman, for the Republican nomination to a third term.

Four candidates sought the Democratic bid to oppose Wiley in November: Thomas E Fairchild, attorney general, Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, William E Sanderson, former secretary to a Republican congressman, and former Rep LaVern R. Dilweg.

Two Republicans sought their party's nomination for governor. They are Walter J Kohler, Jr., son of a former governor and Leonard F Schmitt, Merrill attorney. Gov. Oscar Rennebohm did not run. Democratic gubernatorial aspirants were Carl W. Thompson of Stoughton and Charles P. Greene of Milwaukee.

Massachusetts Votes

Massachusetts, without a senatorial race this year, picked nominees for the house and for governor.

Gov. Paul A. Dever was unopposed for Democratic renomination. In the Republican primary, national attention focussed on the bid of Adm Louis E Denfeld, former chief of naval operations. Five others were in the race: Clarence A. Barnes, former attorney general, Arthur W. Coolidge, former lieutenant governor Edward M Rowe, former state senator, Daniel Needham, one-time state safety commissioner, and Frankland W. L. Miles, Boston district court judge.

In Maryland, Gov William Preston Lane, Jr., claimed victory for the Democratic nomination on the basis of a majority of the all-important unit votes. Incomplete returns gave Lane 80 of these to 72 for Baltimore contractor George P Mahoney. A majority is 77. However, Lane trailed Mahoney in popular votes.

Maryland has a unit system similar to that of the electoral college. Candidates are nominated on the basis of unit votes they receive in each district where they win a popular majority.

Three Democrats of Maryland's congressional delegation — four Democrats and two Republicans — who had primary opposition appeared to have won renomination.

Butler Leads

In the Republican primary, with a little over half of the precincts counted, John Marshall Butler of Baltimore held a comfortable lead over D John Markey for the right to oppose Tydings in November. The Republican gubernatorial candidate former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, was unopposed.

Alaska Traders Get Cards From Red China; Need Tools

By LACHLAN MACDONALD
(Anchorage, Alaska, Times)

Anchorage, Alaska—Postcards bearing the new stamps of Communist China are being received here bearing requests for industrial tools to further the war effort in Red China.

Mailed from the Communist stronghold of Tientsin, a major seaport about 200 miles west of the Korean mainland, the cards are addressed to hardware stores and automotive supply firms.

Printed in English, beneath the letterhead of the North China Import Corporation, the message requests "the following reference material." Specifically it seeks "catalogs or bulletins on industrial tools and small tools" along with samples and discount charts. In addition the message asks that the corporation be put on the merchant mailing list.

On the face of the yellow-paper card is a large stamp bearing the portrait of Communist China leader Mao Tze-Tung, surrounded by tanks and airplanes. Waving over Mao is a victorious Red flag with the golden star of Red China.

"They must be extremely short of tools," remarked one dealer who received a card.

All who have reported receiving the requests for tools or information have taken the matter lightly. A few indignantly declared, "of course I'll ignore it."

That the cards are apparently smuggled from Red China to Hong Kong is evidenced by a footnote to the message explaining that replies can be sent in care of the Wu Yang Trading Company at Hong Kong "Whence it will reach us by the first available opportunity."

How many cards have been sent out is anybody's guess. Dealers who received them here feel it is an attempt by the Communists to obtain even small amounts of materials to rebuild their industries.

Thar's Gold in Them Thar New York Subways, Pardner

New York, Sept 19—(AP)—Thar's gold in them thar New York subways and if you've any doubts just ask the city's treasurer.

Actually it isn't the take from the turnstiles that has swelled the city's coffers, says Business Week. But it's the underground stores which have been the real money makers.

New York's gold mine—more commonly thought of by straphangers as concessions where you can buy anything from a pound of cashews to a painting—paid the city $1,477,523 for the year ending June 30.

Total revenue from ads, peanuts, orange drinks and the rest came to 14.2 million. The city's share is a percentage, sometimes with a monthly minimum charge. Percentages vary from 7½ per cent on most newsstand sales to 40 per cent or 50 per cent on scales, shoeshine machines, and coin-operated parcel lockers.

Biggest reason for boosted revenues in recent years is that new operators are being licensed. Soft-drink machines didn't start making their appearance in the subways until about two years ago. But during the past year, these machines have grossed $750,000.

The article notes that extra curricular money making in the subways was strictly an afterthought for subway planners. Vending machines, lunch stands and posters were put up wherever there was a blank wall or an empty space. This won't be the case with the new subway which will be built under New York's Second Avenue. When the planners start, they'll be sure to make plenty of room for stores and machines.

The Romanoff dynasty ruled Russia from 1613 to 1917.
